

For Instant Use

As a reliable remedy, in cases of Croup, Whooping Cough, or sudden Colds, and for the prompt relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is invaluable. Mrs. E. G. Elderly, Council Bluffs, Iowa, writes: "I consider Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a most important remedy for home use. I have tested its curative power, in my family, many times during the past thirty years, and have never known it to fail. It will relieve the most serious affections of the throat and lungs, whether in children or adults." John H. Stoddard, Petersburg, Va., writes: "I have never found a medicine equal to

for the prompt relief of throat and lung diseases peculiar to children. I consider it an absolute cure for all such affections, and an never without in the house." Mrs. L. E. Herman, 187 Mercer st., Jersey City, writes: "I have always found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral useful in my family." B. T. Johnson, Mt. Savage, Md., writes: "For the speedy cure of sudden Colds, and for the relief of children afflicted with Croup, I have never found anything equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is the most potent of all the remedies I have ever used." W. H. Stickler, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured my wife of a severe lung affection, supposed to be Quick Consumption. We now regard the Pectoral as a household necessity." E. M. Breckinridge, Brainerd, Minn., writes: "I am subject to Bronchitis, and, wherever I go, always sure to have a bottle of

with me. It is without a rival for the cure of bronchial affections."

Be Warned

In time. Kidney diseases may be prevented by purifying, renewing, and invigorating the blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. When, through debility, the action of the kidneys is perverted, these organs rob the blood of its needed constituent, albumen, which is passed off in the urine, while worn out matter, which they should carry off from the blood, is allowed to remain. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the kidneys are restored to proper action, and Albumen, or is prevented. Ayer's Sarsaparilla also prevents inflammation of the kidneys, and other disorders of these organs. Mrs. Jas. W. Weld, Forest Hill st., Jamaica Plain, Mass., writes: "I have had a complication of diseases, but my greatest trouble has been with the kidneys. Four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla made me feel like a new person; as well and strong as ever." W. M. McDonald, 46 Summer st., Boston, Mass., had been troubled for years with Kidney Complaint. By the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, he not only the disease from assuming a fatal form, but was restored to perfect health. John McLean, cor. Bridge and Third sts., Lowell, Mass., writes: "For several years I suffered from Dyspepsia and Kidney Complaint, the latter being so severe at times that I could scarcely attend to my work. My appetite was poor, and I was much emaciated; but by using my appetite and digestion improved, and my health has been perfectly restored."

MR. SAUTER'S MADSTONE

WITH IT HE TREATS ONE HUNDRED PERSONS A YEAR.

His Charge for Using It $5 to $25--Some Stories of its Cures--A Man Who Regards All Deaths from the Stone Unnecessary--Other Madstones.

DR. IND., Jan. 11.—One of the five madstones in the United States is owned by Charles J. Sauter, of this town. Mr. Sauter came into possession of the stone some thirty years ago, when he lived across the line in Illinois. He knew a wandering Frenchman who had failed to make a living and who one day approached him in confusion, and producing the stone, described its wonderful properties to him. The Frenchman wanted $300 for it, but Sauter could not raise the money. After an unsuccessful attempt to form a stock company, Sauter took all the money he had, about $100, and offered it to the Frenchman, who accepted the same.

Once in possession of the prize Sauter managed to get himself bitten by a dog in short order, and on applying the stone, he was able to afford that the Frenchman was a madstone. He has never had any symptoms of hydrophobia he is of course in confidence in the stone.

During the thirty years that the stone has been in his possession, hundreds of people have had it applied to their wounds and only one has died. On the owner refuses to admit that the stone is a madstone, and he has never had any symptoms of hydrophobia. The man came from a family of physicians, refused to keep the stone on, continued drinking, and finally was kicked to death by a horse, which was trying to swallow it. Mr. Sauter's investment of $100 has been a paying one, for he is visited by patients from all over the country, and he charges them all the way from five dollars to twenty-five dollars for the peculiar treatment which it gives them. Generally his patients come to him because he is so far away from Iowa and northern Michigan with the stone.

In using the stone for dog bite it is first put in lukewarm water for a few moments and then applied to the wound, the latter being made to bleed lightly. Then, if there is any poison in the blood, the stone immediately adheres, and will continue to do so until the poison is all extracted, or the stone is full. When the stone falls off it is again placed in warm water for a few minutes, when it will be covered with a white scum, which Sauter claims is the poison that it has extracted. This is continued as long as the stone will stick. When it will no longer adhere to the wound it is believed that the poison has all been taken out, and the patient is discharged as cured. If the stone refuses to stick to the wound in the first place then it is claimed that there is no poison in the blood, and the charge is $48. If several applications are necessary so remove all the poison the charge runs as high as $25. Mr. Sauter claims to have cured of hydrophobia, and this shows that in more than 16 per cent. of them does the stone stick. One of his latest cures was the case of a man named John, who had been bitten by a dog, and who was in a very bad way. He was almost dead, and his nerves became so shattered that he finally has a spasm of the arm, and though the doctors said it was no hydrophobia, he died. He knew it was. Believing that a great responsibility rested upon him, he went to the telegraph office and sent a message to all the editors of newspapers, asking them if the knew where a madstone was to be found. One of these telegrams was received in Chicago, and the stone was immediately forwarded to Sauter, who immediately communicated with the enthusiast. The next day the stone arrived, and Sauter went to the bedside of the boy. The lad by this time was in a pitiable plight, and his parents were not disposed to permit any experiments with the stone, but Sauter convinces them that no harm could come of it any way, and in the absence of the doctors he went to work. The boy took great interest in the proceedings. At the first application of the stone, and the joyous exclamations of the neighbor and of Sauter convince every body that the marvelous cure was going on. After the third application the stone refused to adhere, and Sauter pronounced the cure complete. The boy was able to feed better and was cured. In the course of two or three days he sat up, and a week later he was out and around as well as ever. The neighbor claims that it was the madstone, but the physicians insisted that both the sickness and the cure was in a large measure due to the boy's imagination.

Sauter claims that the stone will cure any kind of insect or animal bite, and he points with pride to a small child he says is the greatest he ever had, of a lion taken from Driscoll, who was severely bitten in several places by a whip. According to Sauter's story, Driscoll's face almost immediately began to be carried in fact—and his wounds were so numerous and so large that it was almost impossible to dress them. On a little stone to do him any good. All hands went at it, however with great zeal. Driscoll himself was an ardent believer in madstones. His father had been cured by one, and he had known of other men who had been benefited by them in like manner. The neighbor claims that the stone was the madstone, but the physicians insisted that both the sickness and the cure was in a large measure due to the boy's imagination.

operation was repeated again and again until all the wounds had been treated and the stone would adhere no longer. The performance consumed nearly three days, when the patient was discharged as cured.

The stone to which such remarkable powers are ascribed is commonly about half an inch thick, nearly an inch in width, and is shaped like a wedge, being only one inch thick at one end and a quarter of an inch at the other. It is flat on one side and shortly rounded on the other, the corners being smooth. In color it is a jet black, except that on one side there is a small reddish spot. Although Sauter tells of the many wonderful things to be seen in the stone under a microscope, it is, to the naked eye, no different from any other stone of similar size and color that may be picked up on the edge of a body of water. Mr. Sauter claims to have a list of all the madstones in the country, and says that he knows there are only four others. He says that the one in his possession was taken from the stomach of a deer, and that all the others must have been found in the same way. Besides the stone here, he claims to have one in Haute, Indiana, another at Kansas City, Missouri, one at Clyde, Ohio, and one in Virginia.

Mrs. Mary J. Taylor, the owner of the Haute Haute madstone, says it was found in Virginia many years ago, and that it has been in the possession of her family for more than sixty years. She has a record of 1,300 persons to whom it has been applied and says that not one of them has died of hydrophobia. Like Sauter, she claims that in many cases where a mad dog has bitten live stock, the animal has saved its skin while the human would have been killed. In applying it she claims to have an improvement on Sauter's plan, and convinces her patients that she is right. She applies the principles. Instead of putting the stone directly on the wound she scrapes the edge of a spot as large as the stone, between the wound and the heart, and applies the stone to the new sore. In one case the stone stuck to a man for thirteen hours before it dropped off, and the wound is still larger than Sauter's, and is milk white.

Whenever Sauter hears of a case of hydrophobia he writes to the doctor to inquire why it was that the physicians did not inquire into his stone. He regards all deaths from that cause as useless, and cannot understand why there should be any hesitancy about calling him in. The stone at Kansas City, Mo., has a great reputation for curing mad dogs, and has been used now and then by two men from Altoona, Iowa, who were recently bitten by the dog.

Archbishop Elder's Stay in Rome Very Pleasant.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 11.—The Archbishop of Cincinnati, Most Rev. W. H. Elder, D.D., was joyfully received in audience by Pope Leo XIII. on Tuesday, December 2. The archbishop presented on this occasion to his holiness the Pope's penic, the value of which amounted to $2,500. The holy father received him with great benevolence and expressed his desire to see him again before he visited him again prior to his departure from Rome. The archbishop fulfilled this kind request with all his holiness the following day.

He presented then to his holiness the following students from the archdiocese of Cincinnati, at present studying at Rome: Rev. John J. Hillman, S. J., and Rev. Father Higgins, S. J., the newly made priest.

FOREIGNERS JEALOUS OF AMERICA'S LAST PROPOSITION.

The Hydrophobia Institute Will Not be Established With Mr. Pasteur's Authority—Too Old for a Cure and Needs No Money—Fare gone.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—For several days past the newspapers of London and Paris, have contained references to the proposed establishment in New York, of an anti-hydrophobia institute and hospital, where physicians could be taught Professor Pasteur's method of preventing hydrophobia and where persons threatened with that disease could be treated. Many of the suggestions regarding such an institution were obviously absurd, but some of them seemed to have the support of eminent American physicians. The Paris correspondent of the Cable News, asked upon Mr. Pasteur's laboratory and asked for his opinion of the feasibility of the proposal. Mr. Pasteur said that he did not favor the establishment of any so-called Pasteur institute in New York, or elsewhere; however, there were no doctors or operators at present to conduct the necessary experiments successfully. He thought it would be better to establish an international institution in Paris.

The time required for a voyage from America or a journey from any part of Europe would be immaterial, provided the patient started immediately after being bitten. COMING OUT ALL RIGHT.

The Shoe Cutters' Trouble May Be Settled.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 11.—Matters look very favorable for an early and final settlement of the shoe cutters' strike. The manufacturers in the shoe trade, and the men of all departments of the factories were held and addressed by Master Workman T. V. Powderly, who urged conservative action and a peaceful adjustment of the trouble.

Mr. Powderly and the other members of the National executive committee, received a prepared statement from the cutters as to the origin of the strike, with a carefully detailed history of all the circumstances. A meeting of the National committee and manufacturers was held in the office of Stribley & Company, and was attended by Messrs. T. V. Powderly, Frederick Turner, the secretary of the board, W. H. Bailey and a full representation of the local manufacturers. The meeting was conducted harmoniously and satisfactorily, and the indications are that within a few days the shoe cutters' strike will be a thing of the past.

College Fire.

OVERLIN, O., Jan. 11.—Fire broke out in the ladies' toilet building at Oberlin College. The hall was a two-story brick building, containing 150 rooms, all of which were occupied by students. The fire was caused by a student who was smoking in the building. The fire spread rapidly, and in a few minutes it had reached the building. Heliochrome Printing Process.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 11.—A few weeks ago the University of Cincinnati, Ohio, gave a lecture before the mechanical engineering section of the department of science and art of the Ohio Polytechnic Institute, on the heliochrome printing process, "a heliochrome printing," a subject of great importance to architects, engineers, draughtsmen, and, indeed, to nearly all engaged in the manufacturing and industrial branches. The lecture was so full of information pertaining to the subject, and the matter being almost entirely new, that it was the unanimous opinion of those present that the lecture ought to be repeated.

Another Outbreak.

FARGO, DAK., Jan. 11.—Parties have just reached here from the Northwest Territory, the latest report of the outbreak of the disease among the Indians. The Indians are making arrangements for an outbreak in the spring to sweep the district of the Northwest Territory. The outbreak is the latest of a series of outbreaks among the Indians, and the government is making arrangements to suppress the outbreak, as last year.

Whisky Pool.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 11.—A meeting of the Western whisky pool was held here to patch up the trouble with the Kentucky distillery of this city. The distillery has been reported to be supplying the pool with large quantities of ammunition. With the tribes generally participating in the effort, the dominion government will find it no picnic or ninety-day frolic to suppress the outbreak, as last year.

It is one to believe the following, most of the Cincinnati druggists are about on a par with a good many of her politicians. One of the leading compounders of prescriptions is represented in the Enquirer as saying:

"The drugs of some of the stores are no good. They will bring you for quinine and ground up bed-bugs for anthrax. If it's awful! Especially I think the case with small osteo-therapeutic stores, or where the prescription is nothing very important. They cut such in a few minutes, and then shake it up in a bottle with water, with a little look in the world, 'one dollar and a half, please!'"

An effort will be made to have the Legislature of that State appoint a drug-inspector and it is thought the evil will thus be remedied.

The Cincinnati Times-Star in speaking of the appointment of Mr. C. E. Tabb as Tobacco Inspector of that place says: "Mr. Tabb is a thorough Kentucky gentleman, of remarkably pleasant address, and is immensely popular with the trade. He lives in Mayeville, is a nephew and partner of Colonel W. W. Baldwin, one of the wealthiest and most prominent shippers of Kentucky, and was brought up in the tobacco business. His appointment is perhaps the most satisfactory to the country shippers that could possibly have been made, and Ohio and Kentucky, from Mayeville to Danville, the 'Brown County District,' and all are thoroughly satisfied with the selection of Mr. Tabb."

INSANE ON THE OCEAN.

WHALES, ADRIAT, DELIRIOUS FOR WANT OF FOOD AND WATER.

One Having Maniac Ties in His Half-Crazy Compositions - Terrible Suspense - A Fight with a Whale which Led Them from the Ship - Rescued.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. - The steamer Advance, of the United States and Brazil line, brought into port six shipwrecked whalers who had been found at sea in an open boat December 30, by Capt. McNeil, of the British steamer County Clare. Their names are John P. Pararo, third mate; Alex G. Wood, boat's mate; James H. Horns, Antonio Pereira, Lawrence Ledreaver and Antonio Manuel Lima, seamen. Alexander Wood, the boatsteerer, is a negro, born in Connecticut, and is the only one who talks English fluently. His shipmates are Italian.

He said that they had sailed on the whaling schooner Mary E. Simmons from New Bedford some months ago for the whaling grounds off the coast of South America. When about one hundred miles to the seaward of Pernambuco on November 29 a dark storm came on. The first and second mates lowered away, the former taking the third mate's boat, his own having been stove in on a former occasion. In a short time the boat was made fast to a whale. From the deck of the schooner the work of the two crews could be seen, and there being other whales in sight the third mate ordered his spare boat lowered. She was without water or provisions and it was late in the afternoon when a start was made. A tug was selected for capture by the third officer, and when near enough the boatsteerer sent his harpoon into the back of the vessel. He proved to be a fighting whale of tremendous size.

At the first stroke of the harpoon he "bounced," or dived. Line was paid out, and when he rose to the surface a strong pull was made to get alongside of him and the lance in the hands of the third officer was plunged into his side. Then the whale "broke" and lifted the boat, men and all, out of the water. When they came down the boat had been overturned and with great difficulty it was righted. The whale was dead and lay on the surface a harmless mass of untended blubber, alongside which the men sat, their boats, which were stove and water-logged. By this time it was nearly sunset and the schooner was nowhere to be seen. Shortly before dark the sail of one of the boats was seen and the wrecked men yelled and shouted to attract attention. Their cries were not heard, and night came on all hands were obliged to sit on oars lashed across the boat's gunwale, with their legs dangling in the water. After dark the lights of the schooner could be seen plainly, but too far off to windward to allow a boat to be heard.

The next morning another schooner was sighted standing to leeward, and a man's shirt was lashed to a boat hook and waved aloft. The schooner tacked three times within eight or ten miles of them, and at last squared away and was soon out of sight. Weakness from want of water and food and exposure, added to the disappointment when the schooner sailed away, made the men almost desperate. Shortly afterward another vessel hove in sight and hope was renewed. Frantic waving of the signal on the boat hook failed to attract attention, and again a feeling of despair came over them.

During the day seven sails were seen and all passed on the way without noticing the suffering men. When night again fell Seaman Lima had become delirious and raved wildly. His shipmates were compelled to tie him with the boat's painter to prevent his jumping into the sea. All night the men were forced to listen to the ravings of the delirious man, but as Seaman Wood said, "It seemed to distract our minds from our own sufferings." The third day passed and still no signs of help and the men were tortured with thirst and hunger. On the morning of the fourth day, November 3, the two vessels passed by. At 11 a. m. a steamer was made out coming directly toward them. She saw them and at noon six exhausted, starved and almost crazy seamen were taken on board the County Clare. Every kindness was shown them, but it was some time before they recovered their senses. They were taken into Pernambuco, thence to Rio de Janeiro, and thence to New Bedford, at which port their men were shipped. When the Advance left Pernambuco the schooner was still at sea, probably engaged in a search for the missing crew.

The Italian bark Fiducia, which arrived from Smyrna, had, on board, Capt. Filippo and his crew. The bark Pietro, about one mile on November 12 off the Madeira Islands, Capt. Filippo left Marselles, bound for Buenos Ayres, with a cargo of general cargo. On November 13, off the coast of Madeira, a terrific gale struck the bark, and all her canvas was blown from the bolt ropes and several of the yards carried away. The ship commenced to leak, and the crew gave themselves up for lost, when on the evening of that night the Fiducia bore in sight and a boat was got aboard her. When they left the ship Capt. Filippo said there was eight feet of water in the hold and she was fast sinking. The Fiducia lay by the wreck for two hours, when she went down. She was of 534 tons register, built at Castellane, Italy, in 1875, and was owned by Marzio & Co., of Genoa. Capt. Filippo and crew will be sent home by the Italian consul.

In reply to this and other questions he gave out the interesting information that if he spoke on the subject the public would know it, and that it would also be known if he did not speak. The senator also announced that when the country demanded his views on silver he hoped he would be ready to express them.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11. - Senator Ennis is said to be very much annoyed at the comments which have been made on his silver speech at the recent dinner in Boston, and he is not expected to talk on the silver question in the senate he exhibited considerable temper. In reply to this and other questions he gave out the interesting information that if he spoke on the subject the public would know it, and that it would also be known if he did not speak. The senator also announced that when the country demanded his views on silver he hoped he would be ready to express them.

A SPREEING PRIEST.

Fills His Pastoral Tank Full of Pison and Turns Himself Loose.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 9. - Within the past few years a sensation has been developed in Duquesne, Fayette county, throwing the numerous Catholics of that vicinity into a state of ferment. Rev. Father Dignam, pastor of the Duquesne parish, is a noted and reliable authority to have been the hero of an affair, the disreputable nature of which will probably cost his career. Father Dignam, it is alleged, was a boarder at the McClelland house, during the Christmas holidays he indulged in such deep potations that he became a condition bordering on delirium tremens. The more he drank the more did a spirit of gallantry develop toward the lady boarder of the house. His attentions were directed principally to two young lady boarders.

The night before Christmas it is alleged the reverend father passed a quantity of money over the transom of the door, supposing it to be the room occupied by the ladies at the same time. He said: "Here's a present to you, ladies." The reverend gentleman was mistaken, however, the room being occupied by two gentlemen who ignored the donee but held on to the cash. A night later Dignam's spree reached a climax. Precipitated with a desire for conquest he forgot even to do his outer garments. Leaving his apartment he entered a room occupied by Miss Farrey, a telegraph operator. Miss Farrey, being employed at night, was fortunately absent and the only damage done was the disarrangement of her effects and breaking of furniture.

When in his room the reverend father, attempting to raise a window fell out of it, alighting on a stairway fifteen feet below, then rolling to the ground severely injured. Friends of the minister have removed him to Connelville. He is said to be very unpopular in Duquesne. Rev. Father Dignam, in this disclosure, is investigating his actions. In this Father Dignam is favorably known and his actions cause much excitement.

SETTLED.

The Shoe Cutters and Lasters Bury the Hatchet in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9. - The mass meeting at Workmen's hall of the shoe trade of this city was the most enthusiastic meeting ever held by this body. Good feeling prevailed throughout and the men enthusiastically became conscious when Mr. Thane, of Garfield assembly, and Mr. Robinson, of Jackson assembly, the representatives of the bodies that have been at at strife since the strike, did away with the trouble, advanced and shook hands over the bloody chalice.

The strike is ended. The men will remain at work until the 1st of May. No fault has been found with the decision of the general board of the Knights of Labor, and with the acceptance of some minor details. The strike will be settled at a meeting at 10:30 o'clock, at the board of trade rooms, their business in this city finished. The most harmonious feeling exists between all the bodies of the trade, and thus ends a strike which at one time threatened to assume alarming proportions and to injure one of Cincinnati's most important industries.

Chicago Strike.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9. - One of the new men met by the Maxwell Brothers was attacked by two strikers near the corner of Eighteenth and Farquar streets. He drew a knife and stabbed one of his assailants, fatally wounding him. Thomas Penfield was running. There is much excitement in the vicinity of the box factory. The strikers are in a more angry temper than they have been since the trouble began. There is a large force of police on the scene, many of whom are in citizens' dress. It is feared that before night some serious days will occur.

Hotel Fire.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Jan. 9. - Fire totally destroyed the St. James hotel. The fire was very destructive, many boarders and guests barely escaped. Some had to jump out of windows. Three of the employees were injured by jumping from the upper story windows. Andrew Flagg, a yard man, will probably die. Thomas Penfield was badly burned, but will recover. The firemen did excellent work and confined the fire to the block where it originated. The loss is about $50,000; insurance, $25,000.

A Fussy Singer.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9. - Edwin B. Johnson, a professional singer, went home drunk and tried to secure his wife. He fired his pistol at her shoulder, threw up his arms and fell on the floor. His wife thought he had shot himself and ran out of the house shrieking for help. Two police officers found him crying and found Johnson enjoying a big laugh over the joke. The policemen locked him up and he was fined $10 for disturbing the peace.

Bursted a Blood Vessel.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 9. - Edward A. Tinkham fainted from the bursting of a blood vessel in his head. He was listening to a musical performance, and died at his boarding-house two hours later. During the last three years he was contracting agent of Barnum's show, and before that he held a similar position in the employ of W. C. Coope. He was forty-six years of age and one of the most widely known showmen in the country.

The Blow Killed Him.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9. - Charles Johnson, colored, died at the city hospital from a fracture of the skull, which was caused by a blow on the head with a brick, which he received in a general row among some colored people whom Johnson was visiting in East St. Louis, on Christmas day. No arrests have been made.

Suicide Denied.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. - At the office of the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal company in this city it was denied that John G. Stevens, the president of the company, had killed himself as reported, and stated that his death was attributed to the accidental discharge of a pistol.

Houses Engulfed.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Jan. 9. - A cave-in occurred at Boston run, near Maloney City, Pa., in the afternoon of yesterday, which was caused by a blow on the head with a brick, which he received in a general row among some colored people whom Johnson was visiting in East St. Louis, on Christmas day. No arrests have been made.

Gone Under.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9. - Laughran & Co., dry goods dealers, Broadway and Ninth streets, are an engagement for the benefit of creditors. Their liabilities are about $110,000, assets nominally the same amount. Two judgments aggregating $50,000 were entered against the firm.

BATTLE WITH A MANIAC

AN OFFICER SUBDUES A MURDEROUSLY INCLINED MADMAN.

Michael O'Neill about to perforate his wife and daughter - A bullet sent crashing into his head - Before the Courts - Not Guilty - Jailed.

New York, Jan. 11.—An aged man, whose gray locks were tinged with blood, staggered into the Buter street court in Brooklyn. About his face was strapped a bandage saturated with blood. His eyes glared like two balls of fire, and his matted hair and face were smeared with gore. The prisoner gave his name as Michael O'Neill, aged fifty-two years. He said he was a laborer by occupation and formerly resided at No. 130 Dryden street. Recently he had not lived with his wife and two daughters but had been an inmate of the Flatbush Asylum for the Insane for six months. Mary O'Neill, one of the daughters of the prisoner, appeared at the bar and accused her father of assault in the second degree. She told Justice Massey that over six months ago O'Neill had exhibited such violent symptoms of insanity that the family secured his incarceration in the asylum at Flatbush. They were ignorant of his release from that institution until he suddenly made his appearance at the door of his wife's apartment and demanded admission. The women refused to permit him to enter, and the door was locked in his face. Several times during the evening he attempted to force an entrance, but was unsuccessful, however. About 1 o'clock O'Neill knocked at the door of the apartments occupied by the family. Under the impression that the deranged father had long ago departed, and that a neighbor had called, Catherine, a daughter, unlocked the door and asked:

"Who is there?" "Me," was the reply, so simulated as to resemble the voice of a friend of the family. No sooner had the door been opened than O'Neill, with a fiendish yell, bounded into the room. In an instant he whipped a revolver from his pocket and leveled it at his daughter. With a scream of horror she rushed from the room and sought refuge from her maddened parent in the bed chamber, where she and her mother were accustomed to sleep. She jumped behind the bed and pulled the clothing over her, and the madman, who had followed her, pulled the trigger and fired two shots. His hand was so unsteady that the bullets flew wide of their mark and lodged in the wall. The reports of the pistol and the screams of the terrified wife and daughter aroused the neighbors, and they came rushing into the apartment to ascertain the cause of the excitement. Officers Murphy and Kennedy, of the Eleventh precinct, were among those who first arrived upon the scene. A bullet just escaped Kennedy's neck as he entered O'Neill's apartment. By the flash of the revolver the policemen discovered the figure of a man in one corner of the room. They charged upon the fellow with drawn clubs and pistols. Before reaching him, however, there was another flash, and a bullet whizzed by their heads. At the same time the lunatic yelled:

"Get out of this or I'll blow your brains out!" Officer Kennedy hastily drew his revolver and fired at the disbelieving figure. The shot was followed by a shriek of pain and O'Neill tumbled to the floor. He was unable to speak, the bullet having entered his face just under the nose and extricated in the mouth. An ambulance was quickly sent and Surgeon Van Cott extracted the bullet without much difficulty. O'Neill, now thoroughly subdued, was removed to the Long Island College hospital, where he lay until arraigned in court. He pleaded not guilty to the accusation made against him, and was taken back to the hospital for further treatment. He will be arraigned for examination upon the 12th inst.

POSTMASTERS.

The Trouble in Kentucky Over an Office.

The End Not Yet.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 11.—United States Marshal Fulton and Mr. C. Fenton, postmaster at High Grove, Mason county, who is said as a prisoner for refusing to give his office to W. F. McCormick, whom President Cleveland appointed as his successor, two weeks ago. A number of witnesses came with the party, and owing to the hotheadedness of Mr. Fenton, he was not put in jail, but registered at a hotel, guarded by an officer. The parties were brought before the United States commissioner, Fenton announced that the case had been compromised and he was willing to give up the office. The case was accordingly dismissed.

The affair was peculiar. A year ago Fenton moved the postoffice to a building several blocks distant, and two weeks ago McCormick came to take possession. Fenton objected. He claimed McCormick did not have the permit to take possession of the office in the new stand. McCormick at first laughed at what he termed "red tape," but Fenton refused to give up his office. McCormick endeavored to stop the mail and have it sent to the old stand, but did not succeed. Both men are Democrats, but it is said Fenton will not stop the mail. McCormick's appointment revoked on the ground that his removal was for insufficient reasons. Fenton offered to compromise by advice of his attorney.

Madame John Dead. GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 11.—Mrs. Matilda Johns Bessene, better known as Madame Johns, was found dead in her room. The corpse was in a decomposed condition, death having occurred some time last Monday night when she was last seen. Deceased was well known in southern Texas as the champion female shot with a target rifle, and for her performances despite her advanced age, fifty years, being remarkable evidence of nerve and skill. Though dying alone and unattended, she was in good financial circumstances owing to her success in billings and a shooting gallery. Death was caused by general debility.

The family are dead. DETROIT, Jan. 11.—A special to the News from Battle Creek, Michigan, says Dr. Martin White, with his wife and two children, were found in their house in that city with their throats cut from ear to ear. The neighbors have not seen any of the family around lately, and it is thought they have been dead since last Sunday. There are no relatives of a terrible struggle between husband and wife, and the supposition is that Dr. White had become violently insane, committed the terrible tragedy and had then suicided.

TYPHOID FEVER.

I am sixty-seven years old, and have lived in this (Hall) county all my life. Up to twenty-eight years ago I was regarded as the strongest man in the neighborhood—the most robust in health. In November, 1884, I had a long and serious spell of typhoid fever. It left me emaciated and a cripple in my right leg. At times that limb was swollen an enormous size, being twice as large as its natural condition, and inflamed and very painful. From my knee down small sores came and at the ankle a large ulcer came, which discharged poisonous matter. My whole system became infected. The doctors would patch me up for awhile, but the ulcer would never heal. The mercury and poisons with which they dressed me brought on rheumatism and dyspepsia. I was an object of pity to all my friends. Some thought that the only hope to save me was amputation. I continued to suffer for nearly a year, and I have not worn a shoe. Hope had almost left me when I bought and used your medicine. I commenced its use at once. From the very first I began to feel better. I have taken thirty-six bottles, and the ulcers which had darkened my life for twenty-eight years have all been disappeared. The effect of the medicine has been wonderful indeed. To-day I am able to attend to all my farming interests, and walk from one to five miles per day. I am satisfied that the disease is entirely broken and henceforth I am able to be free from all such suffering and suffering which formerly made my life miserable. I have been able to do more for me in one year than all the drug stores and medicine prescribed by physicians did in twenty-eight years, and I most cheerfully bear the testimony of my friends.

WILLIAM R. REED.

Hall County, Ga., Feb. 26, 1885.

From the Dissecting Room.

Having taken Swift's Specific for blood poison contracted at a medical college at a dissection, while I was a medical student, I am grateful to say that it gave me a speedy and thorough cure after my parents had spent hundreds of dollars for treatment. My arm was swollen to twice its usual size, and as nothing helped me I was despairing of ever getting well, and as I was a student, I bought a bottle of this medicine. I used it regularly, and soon the swelling began to go down, and as it did, I felt better. I continued its use, and after taking eight bottles was thoroughly cured.

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of inflammation are present, as flatulency, uneasiness, itching, and a very disagreeable odor. The perianal getting warm, is a common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Eagan's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, slaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Eagan Medical Co., Evans, O. Sold by Geo. T. Wood.
